

Pappas Telecasting is not serving the public interest by giving $325,000 worth of free airtime to Republican candidates but want to charge the Democrats for airtime. They, under the law, are obligated to serve the public interest by representing both political parties equally. This type of action by Pappas is nothing but blatant partisanship.

It is apparent that media ownership rules must be strengthened as well as the license renewal process and I would strongly urge the FCC to take action against Pappas and also to establish a Board with real powers to enforce the laws of this land.

If Pappas goes through with its' policy of "Free Airtime for Republicans but Democrats Have To Pay," I would strongly suggest that the FCC not renew their license to operate.

Thank you.

Julie W. Doyle